

Web links for the E-SU & the 2010 International Summer Term Programs

The English-Speaking Union of the United States: www.english-speakingunion.org

The English-Speaking Union Kentucky Branch: <http://www.esuky.org>

Undergraduates and teachers will receive ESU 2010 scholarship support for the following:

Oxford University

English Literature www.conted.ox.ac.uk/courses/international/englishliterature.asp

History, Politics & Society www.conted.ox.ac.uk/courses/international/historypoliticsociety.asp

Cambridge University

www.cont-ed.cam.ac.uk/intsummer

Art History: From the Middle Ages to the Present, ...

Shakespeare Summer School,....

Plenary lectures, special topics courses, and performances

History Summer School,...

Twelve courses to choose from Medieval Studies Summer School,...

Each week you chose one subject from the eighteen courses offered

English Literature Summer School,

Scottish Universities' International Summer School

www.arts.ed.ac.uk/suiss

This information will be updated as soon as the Scottish Universities' International Summer School updates their website.

Shakespeare Globe Centre

www.shakespeares-globe.org

(Available only to high school teachers)

Exact dates for the Summer 2010 session have not been posted. In 2009 it was held for three weeks in July.

Note: College students must submit their applications through their campus representatives. Each university holds internal competitions to select two students to send to state-level competition. Every campus sets its own internal deadline.

Note: Not all the institutions named above have updated their websites for the summer of 2010. Write your preliminary essays about what you want to study based on what is now on the web. Often, the institutions offer similar course from year to year, so the courses taught in 2010 will likely resemble those taught in 2009.

Note: Revise and submit final applications and essays for state-level competition by January 4, 2010 (college students); January 4, 2010 (high school teachers)